February 2008

IN A FEW WORDS

Dear HVTC,

Okay, so the month of February is for LoveBirds; I suppose when it's this cold, slushy and blustery folks don't have much else to do but cuddle. Works for me! See ya out there.

Sincerely,
Mark H. Wilson
Professional Life & Triathlon Coach

HVTC Featured Athlete: Julie LoRusso

By Mark H. Wilson

Have you ever met folks who just glow with energy and enthusiasm? They always seem to be perky, spunky and ready to tackle the day regardless of the immensity of the task ahead? Most individuals like this have a friendly smile, a good sense of humor and usually willing to help those in need of assistance. Julie LoRusso, our Featured Athlete of the Month, is exactly like this; she's a trooper! She's what you'd call a "Happy Camper." Even if a situation really isn't that fantastic, Julie finds a way to crack a joke or poke fun at herself in order to raise the spirits of others around her; it's truly a gift. Let's find out what makes this awesome girl go.

Hudson Valley Triathlon Club

Volume VII, Issue No. 81 February 2008

Julie was born in Manhattan, NY; she attended Howell High School in New Jersey and went to Montclair State College where she received a BFA in Acting/Directing. In high school she played intramural soccer, was on the track team (Discus, Javelin, Shot-put) and even managed the gymnastic team which allowed her “play-time” on all of the wonderful equipment every-now-and-then. Today, she is a Television Director, Associate Director & Stage Manager for Nickelodeon and lives in Chester, NY with her extremely supportive husband Gary (long-time cyclist) and their two beautiful children Liam (3 1/2) and Luke (5 1/2). (The ½ is important; it’s tough competing for brownies against those whipper-snapper 3 year-olds!) In her “down” time, Julie enjoys skiing, Pilates, and anything outside.

The first triathlon Julie ever did was in 2006 at the Danskin Women's Triathlon in Sandy Hook, NJ. Julie has always been inspired by the crazy people who did triathlon. It was on her “bucket list” and her friend's sister always competed at the Danskin race and suggested that she give it a go; noting that she has an addictive personality, the rest is history. She loved it! Interestingly, last May she registered for the MetroMan in Long Branch; the water was frickin’ cold!!! “What, were they kidding...the water is freezing in May?!” Subsequently, she couldn’t feel her feet until mid-way through the run; now THAT’S a trooper! Julie never really swam as a kid, but did join the diving team; that ended abruptly as she attempted a back layout and whacked her chin on the diving board. Ow!! That had to hurt; Mom put an end to that career. Acting seemed much safer.

Julie thrives on triathlon; “I love the feeling of finishing and pushing myself harder than I ever have before. What a rush!” To her, the sport is powerful and amazing; she often recommends the sport to others and even thinks about triathlon endlessly while at work. She really loves her job; Julie gets to work on all sorts of shows and even travels a bit. Julie is fairly new to triathlon, but is gaining experience quickly; she did all 4 HVTC Summer Tri-Series events, 2 Danskin, MetroMan, Central Park Biathlon, and several 5 and 10 k’s. She shaved 9:18 off of her second Danskin time and sliced 5 minutes 39 seconds from her time at the club races. She also eliminated 2:58 from her previous 5k PR; 2007 turned-out to be a fantastic athletic year! Oh, yeah, and she got a medal for her first-ever Turkey Trot; the first 25 men/women get a medal...Julie was #24! Woohoo!!! Uh, gobble-gobble.

This summer will mark a major shift in triathlon for Julie. She will be racing at the Olympic and half iron distances in 2008. She’s pretty pumped; she and HVTC-er Alicia Olmoz have been training and racing together since last summer and Julie couldn’t be happier with her comrade. “Alicia makes training and racing even more fun!”

Julie is very grateful to have found HVTC and to have met such a wonderful group of people. In fact, she and Alicia are hiring one of the club’s big guns to train them this year; Barbara Sessa. Although she's had a minor set-back with a fracture in her foot; for sure, there's no dampening her bubbly spirit. Thanks, Julie!

THE GOOD DOCTOR SAYS

By Dr. David Ness, C.C.S.P.®, A.R.T.® Certified

Eating for healthy muscles and decreased inflammation.

The stress and strain put on a triathlete's body during training and racing can take its toll on your body. We can't escape that even with the best training practices and biomechanics our bodies break down, inflammation happens and the result is acute or chronic conditions of the muscles (Myositis), tendons (tendonitis), and even our joints (arthritis). So what can you do to help your body cope with stress, strain, and eventual breakdown of our tissues? Everyone has heard of the supplements Glucosamine and Chondroitin for ligament and cartilage damage. But it's reported benefit has been widely debated.

Below is a list of Nutrients and Vitamins essential for re-building healthy muscles, tendons, and ligaments from the National Strength and Conditioning Association Performance Training journal:

Hudson Valley Triathlon Club

Volume VII, Issue No. 81 February 2008

EPA(Eicosapentaenoic acid), DHA (docosa-hexaenoic acid, and GLA (gamma-linolenic acid) found in fatty fish and plant oils, and walnuts, flaxseed, canola or soybean oils. These compounds are essential in reducing inflammation and preempting it.

Selenium: Protection against oxidative injury by helping the pathways operate at peak efficiency. Sources include; tuna, cod, turkey, eggs, garlic, oatmeal, and other fortified grains.

Zinc is important for wound healing, inflammation, and immune response. Sources include yogurt, lentils, beans, peas, milk, spinach, and seafood.

B6 is vital for proper protein and red blood cell metabolism. Sources include garbanzo beans, potatoes, seafood, and avocados.

Vitamin C is used in the formation of collagen. We need collagen to repair tendons, and ligaments. Sources are citrus fruits, cabbage, tomatoes, broccoli, and strawberries.

Vitamin E studies on animals have shown a decrease in the amount of oxidative stress and inflammatory damage that occurs with exercise. Sources are wheat germ, sunflower oil, peanuts, almonds, spinach, and broccoli.

Protein: When muscles need to recover protein needs are increased. For mild muscle soreness protein and energy can be increased for up to 48 hours after post injury. For more severe injury your basal metabolism rate may be increased by 32% for 3 weeks.

Remember your body is a machine and as the old adage goes “you are what you eat.” Eating right can help you recovery when you get injured, but more importantly eating right can also help you prevent injury.

About Dr. Ness: A chiropractor for over 18 years, Dr. Ness has been a Sports Chiropractor and certified Active Release Provider since 2004. He has treated patients at the past four Ironman events at Lake Placid, and has provided treatment at races for the N.Y.T.C., and H.V.T.C., and at the S.O.S. For questions about any sports injury email Dr. Ness at 845-255-1200, mail@drness.com or www.drness.com.
