October 2006

IN A FEW WORDS

Dear HVTC,

To do or not to do? That is the million dollar question as the season winds down. With the cool air and all of the monsoon rains, it's tempting to just hang-out inside and watch a movie, etc. However, the triathlon bug is a tough one and I'm sure you've already planned your racing schedule for 2007. Regardless, keep that wonderful body of yours moving throughout this fall/winter and you'll enjoy faster racing in the spring/summer. Oh, goody, Forrest Gump just came from Netflix! See ya out there.

Sincerely,

Mark H. Wilson-Triathlon Coach
Founder/President, Hudson Valley Triathlon Club
USA Triathlon Level II Certified Coach

HUDSON VALLEY TRIATHLON CLUB

CAUTION: Participating in the sport of triathlon and HVTC could cause radiant health and spiritual well-being!

HVTC Featured Tri-Athlete: Jim Wendel

By Mark H. Wilson

Red 88. Red 88. Hut, hut!! Swoosh! Swoosh! Swoosh! He's on a breakaway, passed the blue line, he shoots, he scores!!! These are common sounds for guys like our HVTC Featured Tri-Athlete of the Month, Jim Wendel. He's used to fellas dressed in black/white from head-to-toe yellin' in his face; not to mention the coach with the big mouth screaming "Pick it up!" or "Hit it!" Ah, the good ol' days. Nope, no more of that; it's nothin' but silence except for his smooth stroke piercing the water, the whirr of rubber on pavement created by the infinite cycling ring of his NASA-like machine, and the tapping of his foot strike and rhythmic breathing during the run. There's no one to push him, but him; okay, there is one guy who's been there to blurt-out absurdities, but we'll get to that later. Let's see what enticed Jim from "team" sports into the "loner" sport.

Jim was born in Binghamton, NY and went to Auburn High School in Auburn, NY. He attended college at Syracuse University and New York University as a Political Economy major and received his Bachelor of Science degree (which involves the synthesis of economics, finance and political science). While in high school he ran track (hurdles/sprints), skied (water/snow), played football, lacrosse and wrestled. His sport of choice in college was 12 oz. curling! In fact, some days it may still be confused as his favorite; oh yeah, and pass a slice, too.

Volume VI, Issue No. 65 October 2006

Jim lives in Kingston, NY with his wife Mercedes (14 years together...nice name!) and their two children; Nils (12) and Mia (10). He's a consultant to financial institutions (mostly banks and credit unions) focusing on interest rate risk and earnings performance. Can you blame him for thinking about triathlon all day? Jim is also an avid fly fisherman, both fresh and saltwater. He has traveled to quite a few places around the world and experienced some great fishing, people and scenery.

John McGovern was the individual who introduced Jim to triathlon; via guilt! "He told me I was consuming too much Guinness and needed to lose some weight." Now that's callin' the kettle black! Regardless, it worked and last year Jim raced at the HVTC Summer Tri-Series #3 and "...boy did it hurt!" That explains why his whole family thinks he's nuts for doing it; although they're getting used to it now.

Jim's family must have questioned his passion for the sport recently due to his "little incident" on the bike this year. A young/new driver failed to see him and caused quite a collision. Jim separated his collar bone from his shoulder and will have to have it surgically repaired. Result, no swimming for three months, but the biking and running should be alright soon after surgery. Ugh! Hey, it's great to be alive, right?

Triathlon presents a test of mental and physical capacities for Jim. It keeps him in shape, it isn't boring and he feels extremely challenged when training/racing. At first, it seemed really daunting, but afterwards he feels a wonderful sense of accomplishment. Remember, Jim's been a fast-twitcher for 35 years, so all of this long stuff has his body a bit confused; and he loves the sport!!! Since turning 40, becoming an endurance athlete has made him rethink his entire fitness regimen, re-train his muscles and boost that aerobic capacity. Mass as a sprinter is desired, especially muscle, but goin' long requires some meal/portion discrimination; 1,500 calories out, 1,499 in. What?! It's under.

Jim would like to thank his Guinness Buddy, John McGovern, for getting him into the sport and helping him with all of his training, gear selection, nutrition advice, etc. As a result of his mentor's guidance, Jim has swiftly begun his triathlon career with several local races from sprint to half-iron; HVTC Summer Tri-Series, Hudson Valley Triathlon (Olympic distance), Trooper Biathlon and the Musselman Triathlon (1/2 Ironman) in Geneva, NY. He hasn't claimed any awards yet, but he experiences incredible satisfaction from attaining personal bests.

As for the future, he'd like to do an Ironman in the next year or two and ultimately complete the Norseman in Norway. FYI, this race is sick!! It's a point-to-point course of 38k swimming, 180k of biking and 42.2k of running; yes, all nearly "regulation" Ironman distances. However, it's REALLY cold water, EXTREMELY steep gradient cycling and just in case you hadn't had enough, the last 17k of the run is UP a mountain. Sounds like fun; where do we sign-up!! Jim is half Norwegian from his mother's side and he spent all his summers there as a kid with relatives. Jim says, "I feel it would be a fun time although probably really painful!" And, "I don't think there is one flat kilometer in the whole country let alone a road or trail under 5 percent grade!" Yeah, he's really green. Thanks, Jim!
