IN A FEW WORDS

Dear HVTC,

The recent cool air is a reminder that the SOS is near and the Hudson Valley will soon be an extraordinary splendor of colors as the leaves transform before our eyes. We might as well soak it up, because the Survival of the Shawangunks is one of the most famous triathlons in the USA and the northeast is a major destination for fall vacationers due to the wonderful foliage. We are truly blessed; enjoy. See ya out there!

Sincerely,

Mark H. Wilson-Triathlon Coach

Featured Athlete: Jason O'Neill By Mark H. Wilson

What is it to be brave? Is finishing an Ironman Triathlon brave? Is riding 50-60 miles/hour down a winding descent brave? Maybe swimming in the ocean is brave or in the Hudson River. What if someone said you had to be a cop in New York City for a day, would you do it? Can you even imagine? Well, our HVTC Featured Athlete of the Month, Jason O'Neill, is currently an employee of the N.Y.P.D. What the heck made this guy do such a thing? It makes registering for the 2006 IM Lake Placid seem silly; which he's done by-the-way. Let's find out!

Jason was born in Saugerties, NY where he went to high school. He then attended SUNY Ulster and SUNY Brockport where he majored in Physical Education and minored in weight lifting; you should see him, he's massive! And it's not a result of eating his favorite foods; pizza and burritos. In high school, he played J.V. baseball and basketball as well as Varsity basketball. While at Brockport Jason tried-out for the SUNY Brockport Swim Team, made the cut, and enjoyed a new sport for a short period. He presently lives in "Hell's Kitchen" in New York City. Jason misses his country living in Saugerties mainly due to his great Mom and Sister and declares he's got "the Best Grandparent's in the whole wide world."

Jason's first tri-experience was in 1998 at the Kingston YMCA Indoor Triathlon. He's also very proud of the carb-loading he did the night before and still took 1st place in his age-group. Guinness beer now has a new marketing angle with endurance athletes; "Drink our beer and go faster! We guarantee it!" Thank goodness Jason survived the swim, 'cause he was "wrecked." With that extravaganza under his belt Jason went on to complete the Hudson Valley Triathlon (it was a half-ironman then) and numerous sprint tri's. As mentioned above, he's registered for IM Lake Placid next July so there'll be many other races/distances come springtime in '06.

Although his girlfriend (Kate) and all the guys at work think he's nuts for doing triathlons, especially IM, he's thoroughly committed and swears that triathlon offers him "the best spiritual buzz that I couldn't put into words if I tried." 'Nough said. He's very competitive, too. Whenever he and his childhood friends weren't playing the sport of that particular season they'd have fun running around shooting each with their Red Rider Beebe guns. That's right, perfectly normal brain cells goin' to waste; oh, well.

Jason feels inspired by the sport of triathlon because he feels challenged every time. Before he did his initial tri he was just lifting weights and had gotten into the sport of running. He'd been on many team sports before and had had enough of that; he wanted a new challenge. That's when he met Dr. Mike Halstead who was very helpful in getting him started although he admits his initial intimidation due to Mike's veteran status in the Hudson Valley. Jason attributes it to "that vibe you let off when you know you're number one." Regardless, it got Jason involved and he's eternally grateful!

Unlike most triathletes, Jason refrains from encouraging others to "tri" the sport. He believes it takes a certain personality to do triathlon and that's possibly the reason why those in the sport relate to one another so well despite coming from such diverse backgrounds and walks of life. Speaking of walks of life, now that Jason is a cop in the City he's responsible for the lives and safety of those on his beat, which might concern them because he admits to thinking of triathlon more than his job. "What fun is working?!" Oops!

Jason is pretty humble when it comes to awards/accolades. However, just for the record, he's very proud of the fact that he was the fastest 6th grader in his elementary school; he kicked butt! He did have a wonderful first marathon experience at the Dutchess County Classic with a 3:36; awesome for a big dude. His head's screwed on straight, too, because he's extremely grateful to be able to get up everyday and do what triathletes love to do; swim, bike, run. He feels this is a major accomplishment in itself. Ain't it the truth?!

Besides Placid in '06 Jason would like to cycle across America on his 50th birthday as well as celebrate his 100th birthday on a Saturday, August 10th, 2075. "You're all invited!” And he has a special note for someone, “I love Momma.” Now that’s brave! Thanks, Jason.

Hudson Valley Triathlon Club

The Outdoor Life Network (OLN) To Feature Ironman Qualifying Events

Those who were unable to experience this year's Ironman Triathlon events firsthand will get their chance to watch the sportsmanship and raw emotion of Ironman as the Outdoor Life Network (OLN) will air seven of the 2005 Ironman qualifying events this Fall.

Extending last year's agreement for another three years, OLN will air an Ironman event each Sunday at 3:00 p.m. EST, during the months of October, September and December.

Viewers will get a glimpse into both domestic and international races, with the unique opportunity to see a range of Ironman venues. Additionally, each telecast will re-air the following week, and exact times may be found in local listings.

- St. Croix Half Ironman Triathlon Sunday, September 18
- Ironman New Zealand Triathlon Sunday, September 25
- Ford Ironman Arizona Triathlon Sunday, October 9
- Ford Ironman USA Coeur d'Alene Triathlon Sunday, October 16
- Ford Ironman USA Lake Placid Triathlon Sunday, October 23
- Ford Ironman Wisconsin Triathlon Sunday, October 30
- Ford Ironman Florida Triathlon Sunday, December 18
