HVTC Featured Athlete: Roger Roberson

By Mark H. Wilson

Do you have a wild side to your personality? You know, do you like to play darts blind-folded, bungee-jump from bridges, or even ride your mountain bike during hunting season? And do your friends and family know this about you? Or do you keep that part of your identity close to your heart and let-it-out in times of dyer need? Whichever the case, our HVTC Featured Athlete of the Month has proven that you can be mild-mannered and soft-spoken yet embody some pretty snazzy skills; Roger Roberson has such talent and you're about to discover every ounce of it. Enjoy!

Volume IX, Issue No. 106 March 2010

Roger was born in Bowling Green, Ohio on March 4th, 1959 (Happy Birthday!). He graduated from SUNY Brockport with a Bachelor in Criminal Justice. No, that's not the wild part! Hang in there. Roger attended Hamilton High School in central New York and played varsity golf and baseball; he admits to being lousy at both. However, he did tons of downhill snow-skiing in the winter and his ultimate passion was waterskiing. (Yes, this is it!) He taught waterskiing at a camp in Hamilton and skied every day of the summer loving every moment. Get this, he skied slalom, tricks, and his favorite...barefoot. No way; can we see that at the Park?! Roger didn't play sports in college and was fortunate in high school to have friends who were very athletic; so his first taste of endurance-type sports was hanging-out with them. At first, he would ride his bike with them while they ran; and then he gradually built-up his base so that he could run with them on their easier days. He trained enough to participate in the local 5 mile road race held each summer, too.

Although receiving a degree in Criminal Justice, Roger's career took a different turn; he has worked in the beverage industry most of his life and specifically for Pepsi Cola of the Hudson Valley since 1993. Roger swears he has no idea how it happened and he openly admits thinking about triathlon more than his job; must have been after one of those wild days at the beach, etc. No matter, he's currently the dispatcher and manages special events, sales, equipment repair and delivery. Occasionally, he'll even put-on his Pepsi uniform (after removing his HVTC kit, of course), and since he still has a class A license, jump into a tractor trailer and deliver product. Roger also has a wonderful family in his wife Lisa and their daughter Delaney who turned 12 on March 16th (Happy Birthday!). And, a lifelong hobby of Roger's is hunting; Turkeys in the spring and deer in the fall. See, told ya he was a little wild!

The 2006 Pawling Triathlon was the first-ever tri Roger completed and he was "stoked!" The thing he remembers the most about the race itself was the swim; as he looked out at the buoys it looked like they stretched forever! When his wave started he ran in the water and promptly swam 90 degrees to the right and almost swam headfirst into a canoe; welcome to triathlon. However, he finished and saw a familiar coach who satisfied his desire to share the moment with someone since his family couldn't make it. In fact, none of his family members or anyone Roger works with participate in endurance sports so they all think he's nuts for doing triathlon. And the shock value is always great when they ask him how far he rode his bike that day, "Oh, 80 miles." That's when they realize they didn't even drive their car that far...in a week!!

Roger started triathlon because he knew he couldn't just run or bike anymore as he got older; and triathlon would use almost all of his muscles top to bottom, it was a no-brainer. Besides, he really likes the cool gear; any excuse to buy a new bike, wetsuit, goggles, aero helmet, etcetera works for him. Roger also loves the anticipation before a race or a hard training day because he knows its gonna hurt; and he wants to see how far he can go into that pain cave before giving in to it. (There's that inner wild-man, again.) And of course the feeling of achievement when the race is over is also a big motivating factor when participating in swim-bike-run. However, there's a larger more heartfelt reason Roger got involved in the sport; he's always been thin and could eat anything he wanted (including Milky Way Cake... YUMMY!!!!) and not gain weight...that is, until he turned 35. Roger's real inspiration for endurance sports comes from his father; not because he was an endurance athlete, but because he died of heart problems at an age Roger would consider to be young. "I'd really like to see my little girl grow up and share quality time with my wife in our golden years."

Hudson Valley Triathlon Club

When Roger started triathlon it didn't even occur to him to do an Ironman; but it seeped into his consciousness and soon he began the process of planning the goal. He set-off on a four year plan to do Ironman when he turned 50; year one, Pawling Triathlon and Greenwood Lake Triathlon, etc. Second year, more sprints and the New York City Triathlon (Olympic distance). The third year he was scheduled to complete his first half Ironman in Geneva, NY (Musselman); however, injuries sidelined him most of the season. His fourth year included Rev 3 half Ironman and then Ironman Lake Placid. Lake Placid is his biggest personal achievement and he attributes his success to a weeklong tri-camp he attended approximately one month from race-day. Roger learned so much about him, the course, race-day strategy and gained confidence he could get the job done. "And just like HVTC, the camp was filled with great people who would help you any way they could!" As a result, Roger finished the race with a massive smile from ear-to-ear and consequently recommends the sport to others.

Major goals for Roger in the future are to do the SOS and another Ironman. "Now that I have done one Ironman, I know I can go a lot faster...especially one without any crazy hills!" Lastly, Roger would like to give a HUGE thank you hug to his wife and daughter for putting-up with his training, the treadmill and bike/trainer in the living room, chlorine stench everywhere, stinky workout clothes, and on, and on. Oh, yeah, if you see an HVTC jacket in the woods don't worry; it's just a wild triathlete. Thanks, Roger!
